

Modern Militiaman

A Journal of the Modern Resistance Movement

Issue #10, Jan. 1, 1999

Purpose and Dedication: This electronic and limited print newsletter is dedicated to the modern militiamen and women of the American Resistance Movement. The writers, editors, and contributors of this newsletter have by their talents became leading actors within the overall Patriot movement, be they militiamen, common-law jurists, tax-protesters, Freemen, shortwave talk-show hosts, Libertarians, Conspiracy Theorists or other assorted Rebels with a cause. We are an unruly bunch.

Most of the feeds and articles to this newsletter come off the Internet or electronic mail, which is the Gutenberg device of choice. Far-flung, quick, cheap, and secure, the Internet is a growing web of information which cannot be stopped or effectively censored. While at least one copy of each issue will be printed in order to take advantage of 1st Amendment press protections, thus blanketing the electronic edition, this and every issue is designed to be pulled apart and redesigned for every region, for every portion of the former Sweet Land of Liberty, to be used by Patriots everywhere. The opinions expressed in this newsletter are the opinions only of the authors, nobody else. The result should be freedom, not peace.

This is the 10th issue. This issue is dedicated to showing why there cannot be peace on earth between the criminal regime and the Resistance.

Course of Action

by William Michael Kemp

I have pointed out the flies in the ointment, as it were. I have been accused of "throwing rocks", of tearing down without offering a plan to build up. I have been asked what I think is the necessary course of action. I think that it has finally reached a point where many of the folks on this list recognize that "working within the system" and electing "sympathetic Republicrats" just ain't gonna git it. So, perhaps, this fallow ground has been sufficiently prepared for the seeds of the return to liberty.

First, the one thing which must be absolutely recognized is that the Republicrat party is absolutely, ideologically bankrupt. They are fascists. They are "me-too'ers." They are enforcers for the democratic socialists which have dominated our government since at least Franklin Roosevelt and find their roots as far back as Woodrow Wilson, and their seeds even further back. The Republicrats have gained what success that they enjoy by empty rhetoric which a gullible and disenchanted electorate have swallowed, and are now puking back up.

There are perhaps two Republicrats, possibly three, who hold forth some slim promise of rectitude. Ron Paul, Smith, and Hutchinson. There were perhaps a few more in the freshman class of Republicrats a few years ago, but they have been largely subverted by the power and perks of office. The three that I mention, I suspect, are toothless libertarian (small "l") wolves going in sheep's clothing under cover of the Republicrats. You will notice that they are absolutely ineffective. Any local examples of the same breed are likewise ineffective, because they are joining themselves with a group which is absolutely inimical to liberty and are as equally addicted to power as any democratic socialist. They are voices in the wilderness. Bob Barr, the champion of the right, is simply ludicrous. People must absolutely abandon the notions of "right" and "left" as being nothing but the two boots of unauthorized government power.

So, what is required? I have personally demonstrated the criminal nature of the courts. If anyone cares to pursue this course, it should be simply for the purpose of discrediting that path, by the criminal activity which dominates it and the decisions that they render. The executive branch is hopeless, from municipal government (which is nothing more than a corporation, no different than General Motors or Exxon), and are mere subsidiaries of the criminal enterprises masquerading as governments from the county level to the District of Criminals.

I have personally had success only through the medium of talk radio. Rush is hopeless. He is infatuated with, enriched and controlled by the Republicrats, and access is so closely controlled so as to make this platform untenable. Liddy is ripe for a butchering, for people who are sharp enough and experienced enough and principled enough to carry it off. Local shows are ripe for the plucking. Most of the principals are simply not sharp enough to fend off an assault. The great weakness, the great lack, is principle. Our only arguing point is principle. And this is what is sorely lacking -- principle. People have bought into the sham of licensing, of begging permission from Uncle Sam and his grubby little in-laws to exercise our rights. We have accepted the premise put forward by the democratic socialists of "reasonable restrictions," that the Bill of Goods espouses a "sharing of power." We have abandoned the high strong point of principle and are struggling in the valley of expediency. It is a fight destined to failure.

If you read the scriptures, you find that the Christ espoused selling one's clothing to arm oneself. He doesn't mention waiting for Caesar's approval. The first page (most versions) of Genesis state that every herb bearing seed is placed on this earth for our use. It doesn't mention asking permission of a government-licensed lackey (with further restrictions on what this "licensed medicopath" can prescribe) to obtain and use medicine. Cannabis is an herb bearing seed. Opium poppies are an herb bearing seed. Coca is an herb bearing seed. An antiConstitutional Amendment was required to outlaw alcohol, and personal possession was not even addressed. The only outcome of that abortion was the war on firearms, and the subsequent antiConstitutional Second War on Drugs.

The Fourth Article of the Bill of Goods states flatly that we shall be secure in our persons, houses, papers, and effects, and that warrants are required before the fact based on sworn complaint by a sovereign who is authorized to complain -- that is, a private citizen. Private possessions are beyond the ken of government. "Laws" which declare by fiat that "possession" of certain articles is criminal are laughable and criminal on their face. The notion of a "crime against the state," against the peace and dignity of the corporation known as "The State of Blank" is absurd. The only folks subject to any such thing are the public servants themselves, who swear an oath to the state -- which is we, the people. ON THIS BASIS ALONE crimes typified by "failing to do what one is told" or "doing what one is told not to do" can be pursued. The notion of direct taxes on citizens, their property, their money is criminal. The notion inherent in Social Security is absurd. The income tax transcends the boundaries of nearly every article of the Bill of Goods. The courts are wholly owned subsidiaries of the bar associations, who have entered an unholy alliance with the government, which is the principal source of the evil that the courts are to protect us from. The corporate media is simply a cog in the fascist machine, its propaganda arm.

How have we come to this sorry pass? It is simple. We have abandoned the principles. Enforcement of the Bill of Rights, the only means available to prevent their converting to a Bill of Goods, is a jealous preservation by we the people -- not only of our own rights, but of the rights of our neighbors.

So back to the cure. What is required is an all-out assault via the "talk outlets" by those who understand, implement, and stick to principle. Those who do it must be extremely fluent, unflappable, fully grounded in principle, and unwavering in its application. The first task is to utterly discredit the two parties and their practitioners who have stolen government for their own benefit, converting it into a two-party oligarchy. This must be done by pointing out their reflexive abandonment of the PRINCIPLES. The solution is simple -- nothing "new" need be done -- it is only a return of government to its proper role, as defined by the founding documents. The cure isn't some "third party" of Perotistas or the namby-pamby mouthings of Libertarians. What is required isn't the slow, tedious, bloodletting of fighting back to the high ground. What is required is a flanking maneuver, or, more appropriately, the hammer and anvil. I describe herein, above, the "anvil." The unmoving rock of PRINCIPLE. The talk outlets are the means of doing this.

Jefferson stated that the tree of Liberty must be nourished by the blood of patriots and tyrants. John Henry Littlefish, the ballistician, one of the many small fishes with terrible liberty teeth, must provide the hammer. As it was in the 1770's, so it is today. Power never abandons its position unless it is forcibly removed. This is demonstrated throughout the memory of mankind.

This is, I fear, beyond the intellectual and spiritual capacity of America and Americans in this modern age. I'm sure that I will be, publicly and privately, written off as a simple crazy. So be it. I therefore suggest that you prepare yourself and your offspring for life begging favors and crumbs from the table of your masters -- for life with a boot on your necks. If you infuse the notions of liberty in your children, without the willingness to live free, to do what is necessary, you are dooming them to a lifetime of misery.

When are folks going to wake up? Or are they? How many times have I stated that this is a matter of principle? The comments above are all fine. No problem. However, it's spitting into the wind. The arguments are simply irrelevant. So long as the discussion is allowed to center on these irrelevancies, so long as you allow yourself to be manipulated into participating on THEIR choice of topics, the argument is simply lost. Are you not ever going to realize this?

There is a PRINCIPLE. Piss on your reasonable restrictions, throw away your muddle-headed discussions about "protecting society" and "keeping criminals from getting guns." We either have a RIGHT to keep and bear arms, a RIGHT to self defense and the means to topple the tyrants who rule us, or WE DON'T.

Keep guns from criminals? Don't be ridiculous. Have you noticed the tales coming from Australia? You ambush a bacon boy, then you are armed. We are talking about criminals, remember?

Working in the nuke, I could carry through the entry check points any tool I wanted, any drawing I wanted, and anything that didn't "look like" a firearm. I'm a chemist. Whoops. And they let uniformed idiots called 'security' run around, alone, in the plant, armed with extra ammo. If I wanted a firearm, all I would have had to do was speak kindly to one of the dufuses, then smack him up side the head with a wrench. Then I would be armed. I had all my tools, all my drawings, and if I were intent on mischief, I was fully prepared. The situation in the real world is much the same, and will always be much the same. Forget your lame and self-defeating arguments.

If you want this to stop, you had best shitcan your dithering and realize that our masters intend to fully enslave us, and will disarm us first. They are restricting firearms, but that is cover. The target will be ammo. That, and being fearful for it to be known that we are armed. What use is a firearm if it is never taken out of the closet, particularly when there is no fodder for it?

Return the argument to PRINCIPLE, folks. It won't change the short-term outcome -- that is predetermined. But it will prepare those who are capable of listening for the day that we will reward our masters with the hemp that they so richly deserve -- or lie down and grovel in the dirt for mercy.

That Christian Identity Thing

By Patricia Neill, (c) 1998

Well, what can I say? There is so much froth and tither and angst about this subject that I am curious to learn more. I get distressed when people react emotionally to something that can simply be investigated and then either regarded and considered, or disregarded, or even that rarest of reactions, accepting the good, workable, plausible notions inherent in the overall concept and rejecting the bits that obviously are the flimsiest goods of horsefeather merchants. So, rather than reject this CI thang outright, I'm going to look into it.

I did the same thing with the occult, that is, I researched it, read about it, talked to people about it, went to Lillydale, NY (a town of practitioners of what used to be the very strange, although what with the New Age, is rather common today). Some interesting and even rather feasible ideas turned up as well as a huge mash of galloping balderdash. I did the same with the politics of Mr. Lyndon LaRouche, with the Democratic Socialists of America, the Eastern Star, and frankly, with a whole host of other ideologies, concepts, religious ideas and political movements.

So why not, at the very least, take a gander at Christian Identity?

With Joseph Sobran, I too have wondered why I am not allowed to even ask questions about the Holocaust. It bothers me, pure and simple, if I even ask innocent, "I just want to understand" questions, that I may be vilified. As Sobran said, we're all free to deny that Napoleon invaded Russia, though we might be deemed a bit kooky. There's no danger to it otherwise. But inquire about the details of the Holocaust, and in some places, you get tossed in the hoosegow. That's plain weird, in my book.

Reminds me of my Baptist upbringing, where I was frowned upon in Sunday school for asking questions about the Baptist doctrine that Jesus only drank unfermented grape juice. Since we had to read the Bible daily, I looked, and could find nothing whatsoever about unfermented grape juice and a whole lot about wine. What kind of a first miracle would turning water into unfermented grape juice be for pete's sake? On the order of a mom making Koolaid, it seemed to me. So up went my little insistent hand, and I opened my big mouth and expressed all this and more. My father, a Deacon in the church at the time, whacked me for asking these (common-sensical) questions. Hmmmmmmph! Sniff.

Similarly, if I even question why America has a Holocaust Museum on our shores, seeing as we didn't commit the Holocaust -- and for that matter, why we don't have a museum for the Irish Famine, especially since a helluva lot of Irish made it here, and despite "No Irish Need Apply" we built the Erie Canal and half the railroads. Or what about a museum for the genocide of Native Americans, or any other of a number of awful events -- why am I likely to be metaphorically spanked and sent to the corner -- not for condemning the fact of a Holocaust Museum, but just for asking questions?

Which brings me to the next touchy subject, Christian Identity. Frankly, for a long time, I simply ignored any information having to do with it. It was one of those cranky, get you in trouble issues. Also, it didn't interest me much. And, more honestly, I'm Irish-American and proud of it (can you tell?) and didn't want to picture myself as some wan member of a long lost tribe of Judah or something. That seemed ridiculous and a very slim chance at the best.

But a little while ago, I just up'd and decided to do a little research into what Christian Identity actually is -- disregard the fiery propaganda both for and against -- and see for myself what the hell it is all about. I've started with Arthur Koestler's The Thirteenth Tribe: The Khazar Empire and Its Heritage, which I'm reading now. It's fascinating. I have read many of Mr. Koestler's books, and have long admired the depth, agility and the steadiness of his scholarship. Koestler himself was Jewish, which adds a bit of piquant interest to this book. I don't know what all I may think of it when I'm through, but I'll let y'all know.

There are a good many people I respect and esteem for many reasons who lean towards Christian Identity, if they haven't already adopted its teachings. These are bright, strong-minded, intelligent, good-hearted, think-for-themselves folks. They don't seem to me -- at least, in my knowledge of them -- to be driven by racism or anything else so brutally stupid. For me, I consider all pre-judgment stupid. Racism and all the other -isms are simply ways of not considering individuals, and it is individuals and individualism that I cherish. I also admire a great many people -- and for all the same reasons, their fine minds, their humor, their hearts, their fire, who find the doctrines of CI abhorrent.

I want to know why. And I want to know why I have dear friends on both sides of this divide. None of this means that I can do much about the divide, but at least I'll understand it more.

So, true heretic that I am, I am going to look as deeply as I can into one camp, and then to strive to understand the other, and then (gasp) to make up my own mind. Needless to say, I'll probably also get whacked for this purely idiosyncratic individualistic step as well.

Makes the world go 'round, though, don't it? At least I have fun.

Clinton's War
by Dr. William Pierce

Today let's talk about Bill Clinton's new role as war hero and commander in chief. You know, when I told you a little over two weeks before Clinton launched his new war against Iraq that war was imminent -- that I was sure he had made a deal with the Jews to use any pretext at all for starting a war, in return for Jew lawyer Sam Dash's effort to sabotage Ken Starr and derail the impeachment process -- I couldn't imagine that Clinton would choose such disastrous timing for his attack. I knew the man had catastrophically poor judgment -- I mean, he's the jerk who when he was governor of Arkansas used to send out Arkansas state troopers to scout up women and bring them to his hotel room, who used to let his brother Roger deal cocaine out of the office next to his in the governor's mansion in Little Rock, and who after he became President used to unzip for action right in the Oval Office -- but even I am surprised by the recklessness and foolishness of his timing in attacking Iraq.

Five weeks ago, when Sam Dash sandbagged Ken Starr, the pollsters and vote-counters were all predicting that even if the House Judiciary Committee voted for impeachment, it would never pass the full House. Clinton might have attacked Iraq then and gotten away with it. But he thought maybe he would wait until he could manufacture a good pretext for a war. And as he waited, the so-called "moderate" Republicans on whom he had placed his hopes, declared one by one that they would vote for impeachment. By the beginning of last week, even his strongest supporters conceded that he would be impeached and would be tried by the Senate. And so with only hours to go before the impeachment vote, he starts a war.

Well, I guess that's sort of a Democratic tradition, but still nearly everyone was surprised when he did it. I mean, that's such breathtaking chutzpah that even some Jews were embarrassed. They were not happy that the war against Iraq that they had been scheming for and urging for so long would be seen as merely a cheap trick to save Bill Clinton from impeachment.

But of course, that's exactly what it is, and that's obvious to everyone with an IQ above 70. That doesn't include the yahoos of the American Legion and similar groups, who like to put on all their medals, salute the flag, and proclaim their loyalty to the commander in chief. But the politicians and media people are not that stupid: crooked, but not stupid. Nevertheless, I was worried right after the attack on Iraq last Wednesday that they would be afraid to say anything against Mr. Clinton's new war. Some of them, of course, were publicly expressing their support for the attack immediately, saying things like, "We should have attacked Saddam a long time ago." And no one wanted to be denounced as an "anti-Semite" for saying anything against the Jews' crusade to destroy Saddam Hussein. It was easy to see that the brighter ones had figured out that there was no way they could support commander-in-chief Clinton without the stink rubbing off on them. The Jews might be grateful to them at the moment, but in the long run it would look so bad that they didn't want to be associated with it, and so they began a tortured routine of praising the war without mentioning Mr. Clinton. And the impeachment process, which had been derailed for a few hours, was put back on track.

Right after the attack the Republican politicians all were saying darkly that they hoped Clinton had a good excuse for what Congressman Bob Livingston called his "unique" timing. And all Clinton could come up with is that he had to attack before the Islamic holy month of Ramadan, which began on December 20, four days after he started the war. He said it would be very offensive to Muslims everywhere if he started the war during Ramadan. When two or three leading Republicans -- Mississippi's Trent Lott, for example -- suggested that he had started the war in an attempt to postpone impeachment, he pretended to be offended. He said, with a phony tone of wounded dignity -- quote -- "I don't think any serious person would believe that any President would do such a thing." -- end quote -- Of course, that's exactly what every serious person did believe. But as I had feared, the politicians didn't have the courage or the honesty to stand on that position, and Lott and the others who had questioned the timing quickly backed down.

One Congressman, who was afraid to let his name be used, told the Washington Times that he had found a great deal of cynicism among senior military leaders in the Pentagon about their commander in chief. They were in daily contact with the White House in the weeks before the war began, and the generals and admirals had noticed that the White House's eagerness to begin bombing Iraq grew in intensity as one undecided Republican after another declared that he would vote to impeach. When the Congressman discussed the timing of the war with the military leaders, they laughed with contempt. They all had the same question: "Why now?" They all considered Clinton's stated excuse to be a pathetic lie.

Clinton hadn't built a coalition against Iraq, he didn't have a clear war plan and hadn't given the Pentagon time to develop one. There was no strategic objective for the attack. Furthermore, on Sunday, December 13, Clinton had told the Pentagon to prepare to launch an assault against Iraq that week. That was two days before the U.N. report claiming that Iraq was not cooperating with weapons inspectors was sent to the White House, late Tuesday night. Clinton waited until receiving the UN report to actually start the bombing, but it was clear to everyone in the Pentagon that that was phony, that he already had made up his mind on Sunday, three days earlier. They were all convinced that they had been ordered to go to war solely to postpone Clinton's impeachment. That's what the top military leaders of our nation believed when they began firing cruise missiles into Iraq on Clinton's orders.

One person in the know who spoke out was former chief U.N. weapons inspector Scott Ritter. He's certainly no friend of Iraq, and he resigned last August in protest against what he believed was an insufficiently aggressive effort to discover Iraq's weapons facilities. But hours before Clinton attacked Iraq last week, when Ritter knew the attack was coming, he told the New York Post that Richard Butler, the U.N. official in charge of weapons inspection, is collaborating with Clinton and his Jewish advisers rather than doing his U.N. job honestly and correctly. Ritter said, -- quote -- "What Richard Butler did last week with the inspections was a set-up. This was designed to generate a conflict that would justify a bombing." -- end quote -- Ritter said that officials in the U.S. government told him that when the weapons inspectors were sent back into Iraq on November 19, after Saddam had capitulated on November 14 to head off an imminent U.S. attack and said he would not interfere with the inspections, the inspectors were secretly instructed to provoke a crisis that could be used as a pretext to begin the war. Which, of course, is exactly what I told you would happen, in my broadcasts of November 21 and November 28. Richard Butler went along with the scheme and produced a phony report saying that Iraq was not cooperating, but Clinton, seeing impeachment looming, couldn't even wait for that report. And the International Atomic Energy Agency, also monitoring the situation in Iraq, reported that the Iraqis were doing everything they could to comply with the weapons inspectors.

Ritter told the New York Post, and I quote: "You have no choice but to interpret this as Wag the Dog. You have no choice." You know, I'm not the one who said that. It was our former chief weapons inspector, Scott Ritter, who personally knows all of the people involved and knows exactly how the system works. His statements are in the December 17 edition of the New York Post, but you'll have to have sharp eyes to find them anywhere else. Most of the media chose to ignore him.

And in case you don't already know, Wag the Dog is a recent Hollywood film in which a fictional President of the United States deliberately starts a war to divert attention from a scandal which arises when he has sex with a teen-aged girl in the White House.

This war against Iraq doesn't reveal anything new about Bill Clinton. We already knew that he was a man without a trace of honor or patriotism, a man who would do anything at all to protect himself from impeachment, a man who would start a war without a moment's hesitation if he thought it might be advantageous to himself personally. We also knew that he was a man with extremely poor judgment. Perhaps he really believed that no one would question the timing of his attack on Iraq and that he could brazen it out. The frightening thing is that he might have succeeded if he'd attacked earlier -- or even invented a better excuse for attacking when he did.

What this new war does is cast a little more light on the character of the system of which Bill Clinton is a part. You know, there's not a politician in Washington who doesn't understand exactly why Clinton unleashed the cruise missiles and smart bombs on Iraq. That was the time for every public official -- especially the members of Congress -- to speak out loudly against this criminal use of America's armed forces against another country to serve Mr. Clinton's personal and private needs. Every member of the Congress should have denounced Clinton's attack on Iraq instantly. The impeachment process should have moved ahead on an emergency, around-the-clock basis, followed by an immediate trial in the Senate, even during the Christmas holidays, to remove a criminal President from office before he could do any more damage and further dishonor the United States.

And you know, a great deal of damage has been done -- and I'm not talking about the bombing damage in Baghdad. The rioters who have been smashing up American embassies in half-a-dozen countries represent the feelings of most of the world's people about the United States -- certainly the feelings of young people, of university students, everywhere. When one 20-year-old protestor last week called America "the spawn of all evil," he was speaking for all the rest. Of course, the American Legion, the Rotary Club, the idiots in the Junior Chamber of Commerce don't understand this, but when Saddam Hussein or someone else somewhere finally is provoked into unleashing real weapons of mass destruction on Israel or the United States, the cheering will be heard around the world, not just in the Middle East.

You know, I watched the first part of the impeachment proceedings on television last Saturday, and the image which sticks in my mind is all the Democratic Congressmen walking out of the Capitol in protest during the voting and holding a little pep rally in support of Clinton in the Capitol parking lot. They were all spouting the familiar baloney, expressing fake outrage that the Republicans weren't supporting the commander in chief when the country was at war, shouting that everyone should stop picking on poor Mr. Clinton and let him get back to work on the job he was elected to do, and so on.

Now, as I said earlier, these Democrat politicians aren't that stupid. They understood just as well as the Republicans did why Clinton was bombing Iraq. But they had their eyes on the latest polls, which showed that 60 per cent of the voters were opposed to impeachment and three-quarters of them supported Clinton's war against Iraq. And it is clear that that's all that was important to these Democrat Congressmen. These representatives of the American people certainly weren't going to take an unpopular position and risk losing votes. Whatever the rabble wanted they would try to give the rabble -- anything except real leadership.

And I don't mean to imply that the Republican politicians are basically different. It's just that they had their eyes on slightly different polls: they were more interested in what Republican voters wanted rather than what the electorate as a whole wanted. They knew that a majority of Republicans supported impeachment. But they wouldn't speak out against Clinton's war, because they also knew that a majority of Republicans were of the same mind-set as the American Legion and the Rotary Club. And failing to speak out against Clinton's bombing of Iraq, refusing to condemn him for it, is seen as condoning it -- and rightly so.

Perhaps I'm being too stuffy about this business of bombing other countries as a way of dealing with sex scandals. Perhaps I should take the attitude of the generals and admirals in the Pentagon and regard it all as a game, good for a laugh now and then, and just go along with it. Perhaps I should applaud the bombing of Iraqis, simply because they're a pretty greasy bunch. Saddam Hussein certainly is a greasy-looking fellow. I wouldn't trust him as far as I could throw him. Perhaps it would be a good thing just to declare open season on greasy-looking people everywhere. I'm inclined to believe that the world would be better off without them. But I also believe that when we start getting rid of greasy types, we should begin with that greasy bunch around Mr. Clinton. We should tie Madeleine Albright and Sandy Berger and William Cohen and the rest of the bunch to the next batch of bombs we drop on Baghdad.

Well, that's just wishful thinking, of course -- and the fact is, it's not really a game we're involved in: it's the most serious possible business, and every serious person, every person with any shred of a sense of responsibility, must concern himself with it. Just think: we have a system which allows a politician with nothing more going for him than charm and acting ability to become President -- and commander in chief of the world's most powerful military force wielding an awesomely destructive arsenal. We have a system which puts a constitutional psychopath in a position to push the doomsday button. What happened last week is not some science-fiction scenario. It's not something scripted in Hollywood. It was real. Clinton ordered the generals and admirals to start a war, and they did. They knew what Mr. Clinton's motives were, they laughed up their sleeves at him, they understood that they would be putting our military people at risk and using our forces to kill Iraqis for no better reason than taking the impeachment heat off Clinton for a while. And the Congress understood this too. But no general or admiral resigned in protest, and no Congressman made a big issue of it. When the bombing was over, the officers in the Pentagon didn't even act embarrassed. All they talked about is what percentage of their targets they succeeded in destroying.

You know, this business of bombing Iraq is a lot more than killing a few dozen Arabs and destroying some Iraqi real estate. It may not seem serious to the American Legion types, because Iraq isn't big enough to hit back -- at least, not in a conventional way. But we did wage unprovoked war on Iraq. And it's getting to be a habit. We also attacked Sudan and Afghanistan a few months ago. Those countries, like Iraq, are sovereign nations. People around the world notice these things. They draw conclusions from these things. Corrupt leaders at the top of other countries will continue to collaborate with the United States as long as the United States remains militarily and economically powerful, but even these corrupt leaders are appalled at the behavior of the U.S. government. There is no respect at all left. Clinton and the U.S. government as a whole are a laughingstock everywhere. The leaders may not laugh in our faces yet, but they all laugh behind our backs.

And younger people everywhere despise us intensely. A few years ago we were considered to be a dangerous bully. Now we are considered a dangerous bully who is completely out of control and unpredictable, an utterly irresponsible bully. The moral imperative to put us down, to protect the rest of the world from us, becomes stronger every time Clinton does something like he did last week. That sort of criminal irresponsibility may not seem important to the Clinton supporters whose primary interest is keeping their welfare checks coming, but there are a few serious, thoughtful people left in the world, and they understand that it cannot be tolerated.

The problem that serious Americans have is not so much that their President is willing to start a war to delay his impeachment, but that doing so doesn't hurt his popularity. Clinton can be replaced. Replacing the electorate will be a more difficult task, a much more fundamental task -- but nevertheless a necessary task for America's long-term survival. When the rabble -- the welfare class and the perverts and the racial minorities -- make up only a small minority of the electorate, many people are inclined to tolerate them. When they become a majority, they no longer can be tolerated. I've spoken before about the shortcomings of a democratic system of government, but Bill Clinton has made a more striking demonstration of those shortcomings than I ever could.

You know what I'd like to happen now? I'd like a long and bitter trial of Clinton in the Senate, with the Democrats and Republicans tearing each other to pieces for the next three or four months. At least, that should keep the politicians out of trouble and off our backs for a while. And then I'd like to see Clinton acquitted by one or two votes, so that for the next two years he can provide further demonstrations of the unsuitability of democracy as a system of government in the 21st century. What I'm afraid of is that the Democrats and Republicans, understanding that they all feed from the same trough and that it is not to their advantage to make any more of a public spectacle of the system of which each of them is a part, will try to get the trial over as quickly as possible. And of course, the polls will encourage them to do just that, not so much because the voters want to save the system from further embarrassment, but because they want to get back to their ball games.

I hope that some of the generals and admirals in the Pentagon who laughed at Clinton's excuse for bombing Iraq will become serious now and begin thinking about their responsibilities to their country and will understand that they cannot be faithful to those responsibilities and continue to serve the system at the same time.

Thanks for being with me again today.

Above is one of the best analysis' of what happened politically last week that I have ever seen. Dr. Pierce has written about the moral consequences of having criminal regimeists leading the majoritarian rabble in a system of democracy. Right now the criminal regime is all powerful, however with the use of biological warfare against civilian populations, which is the future of warfare, the criminal regime is vulnerable because it will not be able to protect itself given a determination to fight a total war on the part of its victims. Sooner or later Saddam Hussein, or other Saddam Husseins will not go quietly into that dark cold night without wanting to take several million of his tormenters with him. Starting wars against the weaker nations of the world which have the ability to retaliate in their own way, is a prescription for the invocation of justice.

Wolves, Horses, Sons and Whores

Subject: Wolves, Horses, Sons and Whores

He's mad that trusts in the tameness of a wolf, a horse's health, a boy's love, or a whore's oath.

Shakespeare, King Lear

Wolves

In the year of our Lord, 1998, I met thousands of trusting children dressed in neat little red outfits skipping down dark, wooded paths. And to all the message was the same: "No, no, Miss Hood," me said, "that is not your grandmother, that's a damn wolf! Can't you see his long snout, his snarling, sharp teeth and his evil eyes?"

A few would pause, briefly, and admire the way I carved such clear and detailed images of wolves. "How do you do it?" they ask. "I just cut away everything that don't look like a wolf," me said.

And so it goes, even after stripping away the disguise of these ravenous predators our self-destructive folk still dance with carnivores. This fairy tale year ended with Miss Hood in bed with wolves whom she believes to be nice, kind, loving people and old Jim remains just another canine-hater crying wolf.

This past year, decade, and century was truly the 'era of the wolf' and it became even more obvious that our fight was not with these beasts but a life and death struggle against the 'invincible ignorance' of our own people. Silly, trusting, suicidal people who keep forgetting who it was that ate their grandma.

Horses

Ah, but as the beasts like to say, "not to worry," we have healthy horses ready to ride to the rescue and save us all. Quixotic characters of every description are mounted at the edge of the forest, fighting each other for the honorable position of maximum leader and they all promise that they will charge through the wolf pack and save the innocent.

Oh, Sir Lance-o-Lott, respected, venerated Senator, how did you become so disoriented? You took a left turn at those last forty intersections, wrong Sir, wrong! And you, Battling Buchannan, you are living happily in their lire. Why should we ever believe that you will slay your room mates or bite the hand of your host? In yo ear, Gingrich! You and your 'lovelier' wife were suckled by the wolves and have always carried their repugnant odor.

Enough! We have no healthy horses nor healthy warriors in this battle. There are no national champions at-the-ready. There are only a few marginalized Don Quixotes riding broken-down nags and armed with sling-shots and pebbles. Come quickly sweet champion.

The Love of a Boy

Oh Epsilon, Epsilon my son! (He always thinks I'm saying Absalom) How could you? How dare you! We forgave you when you brought cockroaches home with your laundry from college. But your latest so- called gift, satellite television, shows a contempt that will forever remain beyond the pale of human forgiveness.

We killed those dirty, beastly, little bugs but this new 'pestilence in our parlor' appears to be indestructible.

Did you really think that your mother and I would be entertained by hearing the same moanings and feigned groanings of ecstasy while watching the same, apparently generic, sex scene? Dear Epsilon, do you watch the same rerun of football plays over and over again?

Perhaps, you gave us all these channels so we could learn history via the Hitler/Holocaust/History channel? Maybe you thought we would join, and delight in, such propagandist as Marion Wallack (Mike Wallace) in search of history, or that we would readily applaud his revisionist interruptions of 'our' century? So, we are expected to trust men whose whole lives are lies -- beginning with their names? We love you boy but we will never trust your judgment nor their veracity.

A Whores Oath

Oh, Shaky Baby, things sho' was much simpler when you wrote about "whores" and "oaths." These words have suffered innumerable, convoluted definings. You would have branded a lass who had illicit sex with a carriage driver as a whore, not so today; her reputation would be harmed only if a "pattern" of promiscuity could be established where she took-on the driver, and say, the first four rows of passengers in one of those London double decker buses, anything between that and a fully occupied airport shuttle van would signify something approaching prudishness and restraint.

Of course, Mr. Shake, you know nothing of this nor would you understand the way our libertine leaders 'counsel' with confused young ladies or the ambiguity which shrouds the breaking of oaths.

A lie is no longer just a lie; we started with "white" and "black" lies and now we have "honorable lies," something called "presidential imprecisions," lies that "are not lies because the nabob emperor believes them," and then there is a 'time element' where all is well if the liar confesses within an undefined time limit. So, me dear bard of bards, your admonitions regarding "trust" have little import, today. What we require is divine intervention:

May those that love us never lie to us and those who don't love us and lie to us, may God turn their hearts. And if He can't turn their hearts may He turn their ankles so we will know them by their limp.

>Thank you very much Mr. Kemp. I thought I was alone.

Nope. You're not alone, you are just in the rarified air of the front. What you see before you are your enemies, the masses of the oppressor facing you. And you see the backs of the rare few who are leading. Look to your sides, and you will see allies in growing numbers. Look behind, and you will see the fearful and "civilized," hiding from reality. Yet the wise among them know that the time is near when they must either support you, join you in the fight -- the gamble of death or freedom -- or kneel and obey and beg mercy from those who would dominate them.

It's a war, isn't it? Don't they say so at every opportunity? And haven't they begun to wage war on the civilians? They caused the war by creating a lucrative market in the natural products of the Lord's earth. The oriental lords of opium and the South American cocaine cowboys, who are criminal profiteers, were half-heartedly targeted. The warlords who created the war first escalated to target the peaceful men and women of the earth, those who till the land with their own sweat and labor and ingenuity to bring forth the Lord's good herb. Now they have brought the war to the man in his home who has a few grams of vegetable leaf and flower, assaulting him and his family and bringing terror and ruin to neighborhoods and families. This is, of course, when they actually attack the house which they intended. And even that is not accidental, for it is a terroristic demonstration of power, a reminder to the cowering sheep that their master is in charge, and that the sheep must remain silent and still.

The excuse for the massive military raid on the Seventh-Day Adventist Branch Davidians, a community which had lived in peace with their neighbors for decades, was the flimsiest fiction of a methamphetamine lab. They were good Christian folks, so when they broke the assault and the enemy, shocked and disoriented and out of ammo begged to medevac and leave, they willingly agreed. This was their only mistake. They didn't realize that it was a war on the gentle and the loving, the unresisting.

"There are cases which cannot be overdone by Language, and this is one. There are persons too who see not the full extent of the evil that threatens them; they solace themselves with hopes that the enemy, if they succeed, will be merciful. It is the madness of folly to expect mercy from those who have refused to do justice; and even mercy, where conquest is the object, is only a trick of war. The cunning of the fox is as murderous as the violence of the wolf, and we ought to guard equally against both."

Thomas Paine, The American Crisis No. 1, December 19, 1776 -- the Valley Forge Winter.

How much worse off would the Davidians have been, had they stacked a hundred naked ATF corpses on the front lawn of their property, and told Unca Sham to come collect his servants' bodies -- and then decimated those who came for the corpses? After all, they were gassed and burned in their homes for being righteous and merciful.

So, folks, realize the full extent of the evil which threatens you. I hear alleged, and on the rarest of occasions, find a "law enforcement" type who is an "honest and decent man." And these "honest men" turn a blind eye to the cowboy cowards who prey on we, the people. They are typically older folks, unskilled and hoping for retirement. How honest are they, how righteous are they, to maintain their association with an enterprise gone rogue and criminal? When one flies with crows, one must be prepared to be shot with crows . . .

Juries -- carefully selected to be blind, cud-chewing idiots devoid of mind and spirit and conscience -- convict their fellow men, imprison them and rob them and destroy their lives for things which they themselves have done and do, because hizzoner the black-robed whore tells them to. Hizzoner the whore and his pimp the District Attorney pursue this course for personal aggrandizement. The whore and the pimp are known in the community, stand for election and print flyers with pictures of themselves and their families. The legislators who pander to the lowest of public opinion do the same, as do the mayors and commissioners and sheriffs. Po-leees put little badges on the tags of their cars, tags which are the symbols of state ownership of the cars which are paid for by the operators but controlled by the state. These little badges, Fraternal Order of Police symbols, are the symbols of immunity, which allow their wives and children and themselves to violate traffic regulations and pass through "roadblocks" with impunity.

These criminal predators are known and recognizable; if we are so spineless and lickspittle that we allow them to live fearlessly among us, to prey on us, to live a privileged life as honored and elevated servants of our masters in government, then we deserve our groveling fate.

"These are the times that try men's souls; the summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it NOW deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly. 'Tis dearness only that gives every thing its value. Heaven knows how to set a proper price on its goods, and it would be strange indeed, if so celestial an article as FREEDOM should not be highly rated. [Unca Sham] with an army to enforce tyranny, has declared, that [he] has a right (not only to TAX) but to bind us in all cases whatsoever, and if being bound in that manner is not slavery, then is there not such a thing as slavery upon earth. Even the expression is impious, for so unlimited a power can belong only to God."

--Thomas Paine, American Crisis No. 1, paraphrased.

Had Enough?

Kill Them All Now!

by Geoffrey Erikson

The vermin on Capitol Hill are stealing over half of your income, eroding away your rights and taking our country on a fast track to the Third World. These miserable thrice-damned whoresons will never stop unless we stop them! It's time to:

KILL THEM ALL NOW!

How Can We Kill Them All Now?

How? Any way you like. You could hang them, behead them, roast them over an open fire, strangle them with your bare hands (very satisfying), impale them, sell them to a vivisectionist (profitable), run them over with a large vehicle once or with a small vehicle several times, stab them, shoot them, burn them at the stake, string them up with piano wire, chop them up with an ax (don't use your good chef's knife or you could notch the blade), bury them up to their necks near an anthill and pour honey on them, throw them to the alligators, feed them to your Burmese python or any other method that you can imagine. The more horrible it is, the better you will likely feel about it.

Don't We Need Them for Anything?

Nope. They don't even make good firewood, so there's really no good use for them at all. Remember, these people have stolen a substantial part of your income for the last 80 years. They have spent even more than they have stolen, leaving the country with a 5 trillion dollar debt! They have stolen property from innocent people and used the law as an instrument of plunder and tyranny. Do we need them? No, but they need us. Without us to bleed, they wouldn't be able to live because they are incapable of producing anything for themselves. The miserable bastards don't even deserve to live! Scum! Vicious, conniving, baby-eating vermin! They must die, die, DIE!

Kill Them All Now!

What Would We Do Without Them?

Live like free men instead of slaves, that's what. When this country was founded people knew about things like natural rights. Now these festering, swilling pigs at the public trough have decided that the people of this country have too much freedom and that it is up to them to curtail it!

BASTARDS!!!! Who do they think they are? Eighty years ago the budget was small enough to be paid for on what the government collects today even if you got rid of all personal income taxes! But these horrific sons-of-bitches just keep taking and taking as if there was no limit to what we could tolerate.

Is There Any Precedent for Killing Them All Now?

Yes! All over the world and throughout history, people who have suffered at the hands of corrupt politicians have eventually said enough is enough. The French Revolution was a fine example of what to do with politicians out of control. The people of Romania, having suffered under the communist dictatorship of Nicolae Ceausescu for too many years, finally dragged him out into the street and shot him through the head.

TAKE THE CEAUSESCU CHALLENGE!

Are you tired of being told how to live? Of being told what you can and cannot eat, smoke, drink or have sex with? Are you tired of the government taking away your money and spending it on more government? Are you sick and tired of the fact that every time you turn around another thing you enjoy has been outlawed? There's only one solution:

Kill Them All Now!

Hurry, before the United States starts looking like Nazi Germany or the Soviet Union. March on your state capitol with pitchforks and torches. Lock the bastards in and burn the place down. Then march on Washington DC That is where the real evil is. You cannot vote these people out of office, because the new ones you vote in will begin to look like the old ones within just weeks. They are a slime and they spread like malaria. They are a disease! Voting won't do any good, it's time to KILL!

Just The Elected Officials?

No! The number of elected federal officials is limited to congress, the president and the vice president. That's only 537 people. The federal bureaucracy numbers in the millions; between the military, the IRS, BATF, CIA, FBI, EPA, DEA, FDA and all of the other bureaus and departments, you've got millions of people who have power over YOUR LIFE and you never elected them! My god, the POST OFFICE!! Don't let them escape:

Kill Them All Now!

Filthy, horrible, miserable, statist, vermin SCUM!!!!

If you don't kill them all now there's no telling what they might do to you next. They could use your children to feed starving peasants in India. They could sell your wife or husband to the British to pay off part of their debt. They might turn your children into prostitutes for the government to help continue to fund PBS! Do you want your children to become Barney's whores?!

NOTHING IS SACRED TO THESE VERMIN!

THEY ARE EVIL!!!!!!

For most of the 20th century, these stinking, loathsome, festering, boil-ridden, poor excuses for life forms have been bleeding the American people dry. And not just at home! The government of the United States has screwed over plenty of people around the world. Not only that, but these shifty-eyed, mindless, drooling, horrible, vicious, evil, demonic, flea-bearing, pestilent, sniveling, whining, toadying, child-molesting power mongers are the world's NUMBER ONE CAUSE OF APOPLEXY!!!!!!

THEY'LL STEAL YOUR CHILDREN AND SACRIFICE THEM IN BIZARRE SATANIC RITUALS!

They must be stopped. Voting won't stop them, petitioning won't stop them, ballot initiatives won't stop them.

- Bullets will stop them!
- Baseball bats will stop them!
- Pitchforks will stop them!
- Skinning them alive will stop them!

The only thing that will stop them dead is DEATH!

Isn't Killing Them All Now Kind of Drastic?

NO! They signed up for the job. They stole from you, they lied to you, they stole from you some more, they destroyed the town you live in, they caused the increase in crime across the country, Mister Rodgers has been brainwashing your children to make blind obedient followers of them!

They are evil and they must be killed!

Don't let another day of their depredations go by unchallenged!

KILL THEM ALL NOW!

Have a nice day.

The Siege

A White Nationalist Movie Review

by Martin Lindstedt

Louis Beam did a review of "The Siege" and concluded that this movie was a glorification of the FBI (whose real-life sieges at Ruby Ridge and Waco in order to deal with domestic unrest ended up in squelching dissent within the multi- cultural Evil Empire by means of state-sanctioned murder and arson). While I will not disagree altogether with Mr. Beam, my viewing of this film just before it is released into video, is that "The Siege" is about this Evil Empire's incursion into a de facto Third-World enclave, New York City, which is only de jure American. To take a page out of Thomas Chittum's Civil War II, this film should have been more aptly renamed, "Multi-Cultural FiBbIes Finally Bust Up A Sand-Nigger/Khazar Bongo Party In Jew Dork Shitty After Bumbling White Army Expeditionary Force Fucks It Up." Of course such a descriptive title -- as well as off-putting -- would have left no space for credits to the Hollywierd producers. Hence "The Siege."

While rated "R," this film has no full frontal female nudity, although Annette Benning plays an aging CIA operative who has seemingly has more Iraqis have carnal knowledge of her than the normal daily business traffic in a Palestinian men's room. Instead, there is much use of the "F-word." This is not delightful lite smut flick tuned specifically to amuse the masses, but rather a series of gliberal clichés which uses a lot of cussing in an attempt to convey drama. However, since the tickets at this theater cost no more than $1.50 each, and I must take my otherwise low-maintenance old lady out to the movies at least once every two weeks, I decided to watch this film which has been largely panned by other people I respect. The awfulness of this flick isn't in its danger -- it is in its underlying pretentious Politically Correct silliness which is a staple of Hollywierd.

A white person looking at this film in theaters across 'fly-over' country will find that there are only two White major actors. One is Annette Benning, who plays a goofy CIA slut who lets her 'Bay-of-Camels' Iraqi terrorists she screwed/trained run wild in West-Khazaristan-on-the-Hudson. The other is Bruce Willis as the psychotic Major-General Devereau who leads his White paratroopers into Darkest Brooklyn to squeeze wily Iraqi fanatics organized into cells from within a urban setting wherein almost all of these indigenous Turd-World wetbacks look much the same. The rest of the whites are mere extras who are about fourth- or fifth- down in the chain-of-command, be it police or Army enforcement functions. A White audience looking at this film might be excused for wondering what the big deal is about -- it's just another Beirut Saturday night.

The film starts with the Clinton News Network playing old footage about the bombing of American occupational forces barracks in Saudi Arabia and the Criminal-In-Chief threatening to get the dastardly cowards who blew up these military targets with precisely placed car bombs, not having any cruise missiles which can be safely launched from over 400 miles away. A mad mullah is kidnapped, and we see General Bruce Willis looking at the holy geezer counting his prayer beads and praying up a storm in an Army prison cell some place. General Devereaux/Willis looks disappointed that torture on cultists in Federal Army prisons is only allowed when done against Branch Davidians, and that the senile holy fart would probably enjoy it too much anyway.

Naturally enough the Iraqi terrorists are annoyed that their holy man is confined in a 10 x 10 ft. Army prison cell without pizza delivery, a television set, a telephone, or cockroaches as opposed to being with them sleeping ten-to-a- room in a 16 x 16 ft. Brooklyn efficiency apartment with all the above-mentioned amenities. This latest Imperial trick by the Great Satan is the straw which breaks the camel's back! They immediately break up into three independent cells, with the third cell being the leader by himself ala Eric Rudolph. Die, infidel pig-dogs! -- unless you release our holy man so he can go back to praying with us in the efficiency apartment.

So the Iraqis in their first cell immediately capture a metro bus and leave a threat that they want their mullah back -- Now! A Negro actor, Denzel Washington, plays the FiBbIe in charge of dealing with the situation. Under him is an A-rab collabor-traitor of some sort who will help him out. From there the FiBbIe chain-of-command goes to a Chinese woman and then finally a white guy, who is in effect an extra in the multi-ethnic minority-dominated New York FBI headquarters. After dismissing it as a militia threat, the FiBbIes get cracking, chasing down assorted hankie-heads whose green cards are not perfectly in order.

Soon an A-rab is caught with $9,980 in a cloth suitcase -- $20 short of the $10,000 bank reporting law. But not to worry. The sell-out A-rab FiBbIe pulls out $20 out of his wallet, planting evidence so as to make it a criminal offense in some way. But eventually the FiBbIes, on the advice of the CIA slut Benning, decide to turn the fish loose so they can follow him to the school of suckers. There is a police bureaucracy turf-war between the FBI and CIA, until the Iraqis capture another bus. This time three Iraqis carrying suicide bombs destroy themselves, the passengers and the bus. The CIA (Annette Benning) and the FBI (Denzel Washington) decide to work together, especially since this wave of terrorism gets the rest of the country demanding that the Army (Bruce Willis) get involved in law enforcement. General Devereaux (Willis) says that he does not wish to use the Army as a "broadsword, not a scalpel" to enforce the law. The Jew National Security Advisor reluctantly agrees. President Klinton does not appear in this movie much -- the First Bubba presumably busily being fellated by a Khazaress.

Between the FBI threatening to torture the A-rab money mule, and the CIA slut Benning screwing an exiled Iraqi leader, enough information is gotten to where three Iraqis holed-up and eating takeout pizza in a Brooklyn tenement are found and shot dead 20-30 times apiece by the FiBbIes. The cell is gone, and everyone breathes a sigh of relief. The FiBbIe Token-Negro-In-Charge Washington is commended.

The next day the Iraqis continue the war by driving a van laden with explosives into a fedrule building in Jew York. Over 600 fedruleists are killed, including some FiBbIes. Cell 2 has struck. After the FBI and CIA talk about how they can handle the situation even though they didn't, the Army and Major-General Devereaux/Willis are called in. He is going to squeeze Brooklyn until the pips (and assorted Iraqi wetbacks) squeak. A few tanks are parked before the Brooklyn ridge, while lines of mostly White paratroopers in cammies armed with M16s march into Brooklyn. Martial law has been declared.

[Meanwhile, I had to take an intermission to go to the men's room in order to impose martial law on my three-year- old granddaughter, who has been running along the aisles and yelling and otherwise acting like an undisciplined doofus. I took the stall next to the wall, which finally has the toilet-paper dispenser remounted after a similar incursion had the granddaughter kicking it from off the stall's wall two months previously. After a summary tribunal, a reading of the sentence, and imposition of non-judicial punishment of five swats on the bare buttocks, myself and the granddaughter left the men's room, whereupon she showed that she had not benefited appreciably from the previous example of martial law. This led to a re-incursion to the men's room and the imposition of ten swats upon the bare buttocks after an even more brief tribunal. This escalation of martial law seemed successful at the time, so I declared victory and we returned to the movie.]

The A-rab FiBbIe's son had been rounded up by the Army and along with about 3,000-4,000 other swarthy people have been rounded up into a sports stadium. The A-rab FiBbIe is pissed because the fact that he hasn't, as a good lackey criminal regimeist, been rewarded with special treatment for his kid. He throws his badge to FiBbIe Washington, and tells him to "Go find another Sand-Nigger" to do the evil empire's dirty work now that his kid has been interned. The CIA slut prevails upon her serviced Iraqi plant to try to find the Iraqi cells. The second Iraqi cell has gotten someone caught, and General Devereaux/Willis, like Patton, is looking forward to torturing him for information. After a passionate speech by FiBbIe Washington about how terrorists would love to get the criminal regime to shred the CONstitution (Which for all practical effects has already been done -- this FiBbIe swine is talking about the criminal regime losing the public relations battle concerning reality -- nothing more.), General Devereaux/Willis tortures the Iraqi for a full 15 seconds, loses patience, then shoots him dead.

CIA slut Benning tells FiBbIe Washington that these Iraqis were CIA operatives that she trained as terrorists in order to get rid of Saddam Hussein, but that the CIA, in its "Bay of Camels" operation got most of them killed. So the CIA has brought them to Amerika, where it was vainly supposed that they would learn a new trade such as taxi-cab driving, like the Cubans did. Since that didn't work out, CIA slut Benning will prevail upon the lead Iraqi who she has been screwing to please, please, please behave and see if he can't get the rest of the hankie-heads to please stop. They meet in an Arab bath-house, where the Iraqi leader pulls out some bombs and a pistol and shoots the CIA slut dead, and in turn is gunned down by FiBbIe Washington and his Tonto-Tom A-rab sidekick.

Now that the last bad A-rab has been killed (they hope), FiBbIe Washington gets a kort order for General Devereaux/Willis to turn loose the 3,000-4,000 interned wogs. With four or five surviving FiBbIes, Washington wants to put the General under arrest for murder, torture, kidnapping the Iraqi holy geezer and various sundry misdemeanors. The FiBbIes pull their pistols on General Devereaux/Willis. The General has his platoon of headquarters troops, the highest in rank being an ebony-black buck sergeant, pull their M16 assault rifles on the FiBbIes. You see a white hillbilly private soldier sweat, and faced with this fear, General Devereaux/Willis realizes that you can't trust Whitey to gun down the minority elect. The General asks the Negro sergeant to stand down and he then submits to arrest. "The Siege" is over.

Looking at this film was looking at nothing more than standard Politically Correct pretentious snivelings from Hollywierd concerning what it thinks should be the nature of military and political power in a decaying multi-racial evil empire. The Whites, except for the sluttish and incompetent CIA operative and the psychotic and dishonest General Devereau/Willis, were always portrayed as underlings to be bossed around by Negroes, Khazars and A-rabs. Whites are now to be a slave/enforcer race for the superior racial minorities. Let the Whites run anything, and they will screw their way into creating a terrorist cell, or launch a racist military incursion, imprisoning salt-of-the-earth (except for the Iraqi terrorists) brown people behind improvised concentration camps. Whites are predisposed to being a bunch of incompetent Nazis, just more vicious than the idiotic Krauts shown on Hogan's Heroes.

As a White Nationalist, this racist film glorifying minority superiority simply showed how Khazars, Uncle-Tom Negroes, and the self-hating gliberal White Scalawag Establishment really think. This was only on the surface an attempt to glorify the FBI.

A minority-run FBI such as shown on this film does not exist. The real FBI consists of reigning White Supremacist Establishment criminal regimeist enforcement fascist swine intent on ruling over the Whites, Blacks, browns, and any other minorities. The fedrule regime enforcement arm, especially the FBI, is as racist in its own way as a bunch of "good 'ol boys" from the BATF holding their own little KKK meeting in Tennessee somewhere. A real FBI operation of this sort would be run by white FiBbIes, with Denzel Washington being their token-nigger spokesman specifically sent to keep the blacks from using this opportunity to riot. A smart Islamic fundamentalist group would have sucked up to the Black Muslims by taking care to only harm Khazars or Whitey. They would not bomb mass transportation, but rather take on NWO/ZOG-dominated Wall Street. They would plant bombs by infiltrating the janitorial staff. The racial and class divisions in Jew Dork Shitty would have been exploited by only going against the Khazars, White gliberals and the criminal regime's enforcement organs. This would have the end result of Hispanics, Negroes, and rural Whites in fly- over country cheering the Evil Empire's discomfiture. Racial Nationalists despise and detest the NWO/ZOG Establishment far more than they hate and despise each other. The NWO/ZOG Establishment wants to chain the races together in mutual hatred, while each and every one of us racial patriots, regardless of our skin color, want to live separately-but-equally as masters in our own homelands.

"The Siege" was an idiotic show with nothing in it for White Nationalists except showing how criminal regimeist propagandists 'think.' It had some small entertainment value in watching how less than ten Iraqi Patriots killed over 600 criminal regimeist vermin which started messing with them. It showed how criminal regimeist enforcement routinely lies and plants evidence and beats up and tortures handcuffed suspects. However, I found it infuriating because I've been beaten up while handcuffed by pig-lice myself, and being reminded about injustice done against oneself without having had opportunity to wreak an appropriate revenge is not entertaining. One must also realize that real-life so-called 'terrorist' activities such as the World Trade Center bombing were allowed and encouraged by the FBI, and that the Oklahoma City bombing was the work of FBI/BATF demolition charges set upon the building support columns, as were doubtless the Nairobi/Tanzania Embassy bombings. A series of criminal regimeist-set Reichstag Fires does not an effective anti-NWO/ZOG Resistance make.

In looking at "The Siege" I think my first and last impressions were the most appropriate. Who really gives a rat's ass if Iraqi terrorists were to bomb or bio-war Jew Dork Shitty? For that matter, who really gives a rat's ass if the criminal regime bombs or bio-wars West-Khazaristan-on- the-Hudson and then blames it on Iraqis -- or even militiamen?

I most certainly do not. I certainly do not think that you should either.

Frankly, I don't see why this second administration of the Michigan Militia was not voted out sooner. Well after the 'extremism' of Norman Olson the Michigan Militia seems to have voted "no confidence" in the 2d Administration in favor of a 3rd Administration of a Joe Pilchack. I don't know how well this 3rd Administration will be from a Resistance standpoint, however it should be much better than the 'moderate' administration of Van Huizen and Wayne. Wayne in particular was deemed to be a fedrule mole insinuated into a militia command.

I have no idea of when this change of administration via vote took place. I recently received this message from the Chief-of-Staff of a CI militia in North Carolina, one Ramon Sparks. It was to be expected that this matter could not be concealed from a Resistance which is largely White Nationalist by political belief and Christian Identity by religious belief. I would not be surprised to learn that the new Michigan militia regime in fact took care to notify known CI militias as to the results of this election.

I disagree with the premise that the current Michigan Militia WWW page should not be looked at. In fact, a look at that WWW page should reveal why the rank-and-file of the Wolverines voted for a change in administration. The Van Huizen & Wayne regime was pro-criminal regimeist, and routinely consulted with such tyrannical organs of the criminal regime as the FBI and the Anti-Defamation League of the NWO/ZOG. Doubt this? Then look at the very words of these appeasement lackey-traitors themselves:

Seen at: <http://militia.gen.mi.us/text/trochman.html>
Wayne's Open Letter to John Trochmann of the Montana Militia:

"Recently three people were arrested in Michigan. They were arrested for planning to do some pretty stupid, not to mention dangerous, things. It was quoted in the Detroit paper that I had said we were working with the ADL. That is correct up to a point. We asked them for information on the two-seed doctrine which includes the KKK, Jural society, the Christian Identity movement, and this leaderless cell movement so that we could ferret out those in Michigan whose agenda is to promote chaos, who are only willing to fight for the rights of a chosen few (sounds suspiciously like those in government).

Tom Wayne
Executive Officer
Michigan Militia Corps - Wolverines

This traitor admits that "working with the ADL is correct, up to a point." They sought the ADL line on Dual-Seedline, the common-law movement, and "leaderless resistance" so that they could "ferret out" those whose agenda is to "promote chaos" against their beloved criminal regime. Asking the ADL about Dual-Seedline is no more way to get to 'objective fact' than asking a Dual-Seedliner about what should be done with the paramilitary and intelligence occupational arm of the Spawn of Satan through the line of Cain. The common-law movement is usually manned by the elders of Israel who act as the judicial arm of the Resistance. And "Leaderless Resistance" as broken up into Active Service Unit cell of from 1-5 fanatics is the organizational method of our Underground Army of the Resistance. It is by creating an organizational structure by cells that the eyes and ears of the criminal regime's occupational police forces are negated. Being blind, the criminal regimeist pigs can only strike blindly, creating ever more hatred and ever more Resistance to its tyranny. We are called "The Resistance" because that is our function -- to generate ever more and more resistance until this NWO/ZOG occupationalist criminal regime can no longer function any more than an overstressed battery can no longer recharge because of its insurmountable internal resistance. On that day to be desired, we will destroy the criminal regime and exterminate the hated criminal regimeists.

In short, this militia general has a first loyalty to the criminal regime and a hatred of the Resistance which is more properly indigenous to the ADL, SPLC, and the FBI. They offered no assistance to the Montana Freemen, not even in a moral capacity. At least Norm Olson, the 1st Commander offered to aid and comfort the Montana Freemen. The treasonous ADL administration of Van Huizen and Wayne not only refused to do any such thing, but commanded otherwise as their NWO/ZOG masters bade them.

For those militia generals who imagine that the FBI is anything other than a regime criminal enforcement arm, please note what Van Huizen said at

<http://militia.gen.mi.us/commander.html> -- Meet the Commander

What is Lynn's philosophy? - Lynn is not, nor was he ever, "anti-government" as many in the media, and those who make money off fear - such as Morris Dees, would like the populace to believe. Lynn maintains good connections with the local FBI to keep himself updated on their major activities, and to keep them informed of our goals and intentions. Lynn kept in near-constant contact with the FBI during the Freemen siege, assuring the FBI that we were not on our way. During the siege, Lynn expressed his concerns of the Federal government simply going in with excessive force, and the FBI contacts were similarly relieved that such action was not taken. He also maintains friendships with many in local and state law-enforcement, who often stop in the gun store and bid Lynn good day.

Can one imagine what one would think, if a similar policy had been followed by a Vichy Frency official towards the local Gestapo chief?

Lynn is not, nor was he ever, anti-Nazi as many in the media, including the Volksfest Khazarbeiter or Gregor Strasser, would like the occupied population to believe. Lynn maintains good connections with Major Klaus Barbie and the Gestapo to keep himself updated on their major activities, and to keep them informed of our goals and intentions. Lynn kept in near-constant contact with the Gestapo during the Ardennes invasion, assuring the Gestapo that we were not on our way. During the invasion, Lynn expressed his concerns of the Panzer Divisions simply going in with excessive force, and the Gestapo contacts were similarly relieved that such action was not taken. He also maintains friendships with many in local and Vichy law-enforcement, who often stop in his Zyklon B delousing station and crematory and bid Lynn "Guten Morgen und Guten Appetit".

Now I don't believe in the Holohoax scam, but can one imagine what a real WWII French Resistance operative would have thought if he had seen Mayor Huizen posting this treasonous bullshit in the local market square? He would have considered this cretin to be a Nazi collabor-traitor, and made an example of him and his family the instant that the Gestapo got lax.

To my way of thinking, it is past time that the 2d Pro-Criminal Regimeist militia regime of Huizen and Wayne were ousted by popular vote of the rank-and-file militiamen. There have been too many of these CONstitutional militias which have been set up to prevent a real Resistance from coalescing around sources of real independent political power with a real fighting ideology of White Nationalism or a real fighting doxology of Identity Christianity. But time is on our side, and the fighting patriots are beginning to realize that we do not wish to "reform" a piece-of-shit evil multi-ethnic empire, but to rather form independent homogenous nation-states of our own which reflect our inherent racial and cultural differences.

The abomination WWW page at <http://militia.gen.mi.us/>, which calls itself the 'official' Michigan Militia Corps is not going to surrender itself to the legitimate republican successor administration of the Michigan Militia Corps. Thus it is necessary to develop a new WWW page.

Let me offer the services of myself to help you put up a WWW page on behalf of Patrick Henry On-Line, which is a Revolutionary Resistance WWW page. I also have Identity Christian and White Nationalist Resistance allies who would be pleased to put up hyperlinks to a real Resistance organization.

I thank you for your time and attention and hope to be of service to the legitimate successor administration of the Michigan Militia Corps.

Sincerely yours,

>Dear Martin,

Thank you for your response, I respect your opinion, I believe in your right to express your ideals, I understand where you are coming from, but I believe this country must have patriots that love this country to save this country from what ever domaination. Tom Wayne called me today to tell me (by a loud voice) that I am nothing but a waste floating in a toliet, if you get my drift. He stated if I wanted a war, I got one. In the years that I was associated with him, he has always said, "you know that you are over target when you recieve flack". Well, I am over the target.

I can't agree with what your ideas are, (at least some of them) but I support your right to your opinion, and I will defend your right to your opinion. I can say you have done your home work and thank you for your input. I know that we maybe of a different mind set about the way the Bible is written, but we can both agree that the money changers have been in the destruction of our country. This is not a judgement upon you, this is a thank you letter for your support. Tom loves to use the ADL to support his direction, and you know how the media controls the sheepleople. Once again thankyou, and may you be safe.

Your Friend in Freedom,

Dear Divisional Officer Haynes:

I thank you for your courteous and timely response.

Getting to the political differences which are endemic between the Resistance and the open public militia organizations, I must admit that they do exist, and that there are good reasons for these differences. Most of the Resistance elements are of Christian Identity religion and White Nationalist by politics. We do not intend to 'reform' what is in actuality an evil multi-racial multi-cultural empire because like all empires it exists to benefit a tiny elite of regime criminals who do well by destroying the racial nationality which formed first a successful nation-state and then the empire. As has gone Persia, Rome, and now America, the founding race is slaughtered across the globe, the remaining element at home is heavily taxed into extinction, all for the benefit of ruling regime criminals and traitors. See Oswald Spengler's "Decline of the West" or Ulrich Varange's "Imperium," or the soon-to-be-released Lothrup Stoddard's "Racial Realities In Europe" upon my WWW page for a more thorough grounding of the evils of multi-racial empires and why they inevitably collapse.

In any case, the Resistance element is a matter of thinking racial nationalism which is in direct conflict with this ruling multi-racial evil empire which uses the civic religion of CONstitutionalism to justify a counterfeit racial "equality" in which all races are in actuality under the lash -- with the founding white race especially exploited as cash cows because of their superior qualities of industry and thrift. As part of this Resistance, it is becoming more and more apparent that former shibboleths which have been measured in the scales and found wanting must be discarded. These include "democracy" and "CONstitutionalism." If CONstitutionalism says that the ruling fedrule evil empire has any legitimacy, and is used as a foundation for its consolidation of power, then both CONstitution and democracy must be jettisoned as anvil baggage. I do not intend to let the mass of moral mattoids infesting this country a majority vote as to whether I remain free or are allowed to even exist.

Over the past year or so, the question of "reform" versus "Revolution" has tipped to where the Revolutionists have won, and so too has the Resistance over what is left of the militias. The libberToon and Paytroit element are selling a self-serving something which increasingly has fewer and fewer buyers. Patrick Henry On-Line was always Revolutionary Resistance, and recently "The Resister" also abandoned Randian Objectivism in favor of "tribalism" -- i.e. White Nationalism.

Now can one expect a open public militia which prides itself on CONstitutional foundations pull up all its past moorings and become a Resistance organization all at once? Of course not. Not all at once. But yet it must, because keeping its old ideological baggage means keeping the rats which have infested it.

At some time, Monday, you announced that the Michigan Militia underwent a change of administration, which was also an announcement that the previous belief system exemplified by the administrative regimeists was suspect. You credit me for my research, my homework. Yet a simple look at the WWW links of what the Michigan Militia believed in -- such as working with the FBI, the BATF, and the ADL -- made it quite apparent to anyone who looked that the Huizen and Wayne administration was altogether about infiltrators and agents provocateur of the criminal regime being given a free hand in the diktat of militia policy. At some time, the rank-and-file membership woke up and underwent a paradigm shift to where they elected new leadership -- namely yourself and a Commander Pilschack among others.

Now you face the ratlike snarl of Tom Wayne crudely comparing you to a turd in a toilet-bowl. Do not be alarmed or annoyed. Small minds think alike. Maureen Sielaff told her friends and associates Ken McWilliams, Ed Wolfe, Jeff Randall and most of the Tri-States Militia/Coalition "That Martin Lindstedt is one big pile of shit that even flies would not land upon." I ended up getting confirmation from the parties involved that each of them had been in contact with this Maureen heifer when she said that. This sort of thing is invaluable in establishing linkages between fedrule informers and agents provocateur. Enjoy their hatred. It means that they hate you for good reason.

But looking at your present dilemma, let me guess your present position. The Michigan Militia is going to split between the those who have voted out the Van Huizen-Wayne regime and those who still support it. Wayne has doubtless already "worked with" the FiBbIes, BATF, and ADL to sell names to put on the regimeist's lists. The ruling regime will not turn over the WWW page, because you have previously called it with good reason a death trap. Thus you and your break-away majority is itself in danger as some militiamen will want to drop below sight and go underground, becoming in effect Resistance elements.

Your political element within the new republican administration will have to therefore set up a new WWW page and also notify the entire Movement as to your legitimacy by frankly revealing the reasons for the reform and that it was indeed a majority by revealing the vote. You have no choice because you have the Van Huizen-Wayne criminal regimeist element knowing that they have been unearthed and since "This is war!" you must immediately go about taking steps to win it. You must reveal both the reasons for the vote, and what the actual vote was, in order to show that your reform republicanism is indeed the legitimate Michigan Militia Corps. Otherwise, your faction will be deemed to be the outlaw faction, and not worthy of note other than as the continued fractionalization of what remains of the militia movement. You must do it soon, because this is indeed news. News that the militia movement has become more militant regarding the presence of criminal regimeist infilltraiors and that what remains will simply not be led by agents provocateur.

I would ask the obvious questions of Who, What, When, Where, and Why. Who are the new leadership of the Michigan Militia Corps? What happened? When did it happen? Where did this happen? And why now, after several years under the pro-FBI&ADL regime of Van Huizen and Wayne?

You must come up with and disseminate cogent and logical answers to these basic questions or the pro-criminal regimeists Van Huizen and Wayne will do so to your reform faction's detriment. Better do it soon and to them first.

I think you will come around to the Revolutionary Resistance point of view eventually. This point of view holds that America should be for Americans, that the criminal regimeist evil multicultural empire must be overthrown, the racial nationalities freed to go their own way, and criminal regimeists exterminated root and branch to safeguard this Revolution. We know what we want, and thus we know ourselves. We know the enemy and hate them for what they are. Knowing ourselves and knowing our enemies, we cannot be compromised into irrelevance and according to Sun Tzu can fight one hundred battles with the assurance that we will win 100 victories.

It is not as if you have any choice. The regimeist faction will claim to be for the CONstitution and for 'reform' of the evil multi-racial empire. How then will you differentiate yourself by calling for the same thing? Caught between the criminal regime's murderous treacherous fury, and a Resistance which will insist that you choose sides, how then can you survive for long caught out in the open? You can't!

Four years ago I too was a CONstitutional-idolator. I believed in "taking my gubbnmint back." I nearly got kicked out of the 24th Missouri Militia for getting caught on TV saying that I thought the criminal regime bombed its own building as a Reichstag fire. I denied my weakened form of Christian Identity upbringing from the Worldwide Church of God. I was pussy-whupped scairt to admit that I preferred the company of rural white people. I was a CONstitutional militiaman.

But I seen what was going on. I seen people set up by the FibbIes and the pig-lice. I suffered more injustice at the hands of the criminal regime both first-hand, and it visited upon my brethren. I seen that this evil scrap of toilet-paper called a CONstitution availed me naught, and was good for nobody or nothing except the criminal regime and criminal regimeists, who know full well this CONstitution is toilet paper and treat it as such. And I had to question my political beliefs and renew my religious beliefs. And I now know that a religious movement of Christian Identity and a political movement of White Nationalism is the paramount belief system of the Resistance, and that this Resistance Movement shall prevail by destroying, not reforming the evil multi-racial empire -- the gulag of racial nationalities. Thus for the past year or two I have had to ride point for the Resistance.

I assure you that I am willing to help your cause because our enemies are the same. I do not ask you to believe in or share my religious beliefs, but am confident that circumstances will force you to develop similar ones due to the press of reality.

I think that the hard-line militia personnel should go underground as soon as possible, and that this present split can go far in justifying doing exactly that. However, the militia movement is of use in pooling potential Resistance talent before it does go underground to replenish the reservoirs of Revolutionary activity. Thus a militia movement as an above-ground cadre should be replenished, to act as a 'farm-team' for both the Resistance Active Service Unit cells and the Resistance Political Front. It should be aimed at suburban whites who are not naturally apt like the rural whites for Revolutionary struggle. This new militia farm-team should not be contaminated by criminal regimeist infilltraitors such as Van Huisen or Wayne. A reinvigorated militia movement of quality, professing pacifism and "CONstitutionalism" as a facade could indeed be useful to the Resistance. Once radicalized, the pacifism and CONstitutional-idolatry can be sloughed off like a growing snake's skin.

To sum it up: I think you need to get your side of the story, in all its details, out as soon as possible. I also think you need to figure out that the criminal regime is your enemy and that the Resistance is your ally. I also hope you will clarify your thinking, and consider what I have said in this open letter. I am more than willing to help you do that which is necessary. I am

Most Sincerely Yours,

FBI Director Freeh Warns Of Millennium Violence

By Patricia Wilson

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - FBI Director Louis Freeh warned Thursday that right-wing extremists, religious cults or apocalyptic groups could turn to violence to fulfill their prophecies of Armageddon as the year 2000 approaches.

At a congressional hearing on counter-terrorism, Freeh cited "rogue terrorists" such as Saudi dissident Osama bin Laden -- blamed by Washington for the bombing of two American embassies in East Africa last year -- as probably the most urgent risk to U.S. interests. But he said the domestic threat could not be ignored, especially as the millennium approached.

"The possibility of an indigenous group like Aum Supreme Truth cannot be excluded," he said, referring to the cult responsible for a nerve gas attack in the Tokyo subway system in March, 1995.

"With the coming of the next millennium, some religious/apocalyptic groups or individuals may turn to violence as they seek to achieve dramatic effects to fulfill their prophecies," he said.

Freeh expressed dismay at a "pattern of racist elements" seeping into the U.S. militia movement most of which, he said, had no racial overtones and did not espouse bigotry.

But he discussed at length "a disturbing trend" toward the pseudo-religion of Christian Identity -- and other hate philosophies -- that provided both a religious base for racism and anti-Semitism as well as an ideological rationale for violence against minorities.

"Many white supremacist groups adhere to the Christian Identity belief system, which holds that the world is on the verge of a final apocalyptic struggle ... and teaches that the white race is the chosen race of God," he said.

Many of those who believe in this credo are engaged in survivalist and paramilitary training, storing foodstuffs and supplies and caching weapons and ammunition.

Freeh said that as 1999 came to a close, Identity's more extreme members could prepare for Armageddon by carrying out armed robberies to finance the upcoming battle, destroying government property and targeting Jews and non-whites.

The FBI had "little credible intelligence" at this time indicating that terrorists, either domestic or international, were preparing to attack the United States, the director said.

But he added that "a growing number -- while still small -- of 'lone offender' and extremist splinter elements of right-wing groups have been identified as possessing or attempting to develop or use" chemical, biological or nuclear weapons.

Attorney General Janet Reno, who also appeared before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee, said a terrorist attack using a biological weapon might not be immediately apparent with far-reaching impact on victims and emergency personnel.

"In fact, we have found recently the mere threat of the use of unconventional weapons can cause concern and panic. Threats to release harmful biological or chemical substances cannot be ignored," she said. Freeh said the FBI dealt with an "anthrax warning letter" somewhere in the country almost every day.

U.S. officials had to be able "to match wits with the bad guys," Reno said.

She appealed to the Senate panel to approve funds for a National Domestic Preparedness Office to be led by the FBI to provide coordination and a single point of contact for state and local communities.

Of course, knowing that the Media whores cannot have a single original thought in their head, I started tracking the sewage flow upstream to the original source, in this case to KhazarLouis's speech to the CONgress. KhazarLouis of the FiBbIes is like Moreass-the-Sleezester, always looking for the criminal alien element to sponsor some more repression and genocide for White America. In this case, he went before the legis-traitors in the District of Corruption to beg for money, claiming that the Resistance element were going to rouse the peasantry to storm the Bastille and chop off their heads, so the ruling criminal regimeists had better pay some more money to the FiBbIes and BATF to ratchet up repression another notch or two. All of which is fine because it is repression by a criminal regime which makes for a successful revolution where there is enough political will fostered by hatred and injustice necessary to destroy the criminal regime and exterminate criminal regimeists.

Every Resistance Political Front organization needs to have a section devoted to intelligence gathering, most of which is simply reading and analyzing criminal regimeist propaganda from whatever source derived. Sometimes one must plod along, reading second-hand SPLC-like drivel from suspected infiltrators and agents provocateur like Benedict Randall, Red Mike Vanderboegh, Ed-the-FiBbIe-Dog, KhazarL Worden, etc. Occassionally you hear the real horseshit from the Khazar-In-Chief of the ZOG hisself, KhazarLouis of the FiBbIes. While KhazarLouis is a liar typical of imperial criminal regimeists, KhazarLouis cannot help but display a pro-evil empire slant in his ZOG/NWO imperialist propaganda. Thus knowing the slant, it is an easier to sein out the truth when casting the net over the entire pack of lies.

Below is the Domestic Terrorism aspect in KhazarLouis's beg-a-thon for a bigger Police State before the Senate legis-traitors. Of course KhazarLouis in his international terrorism speech didn't explain how the African OKC-style Reichstag Fires had, like in OKC, so many uninjured FiBbIes waiting to 'investigate' on an instant the embassy bombings. It should be a matter of satisfaction to have the criminal regime blow up its employees and its buildings to set more and more Reichstag Fires in a diminishing-returns effort to restore mass demand for a larger police state, while at the same time the growing Resistance Movement, ordinary people both foreign & domestic, and fedrule employees know full well who exactly is behind the 'terrorist' provocations. April 19th, 1999 is a week day, and so is April 15th. You might well have fedrule office 'workers' with a contingent of

But back to what the FiBbIes do best -- domestic terrorism. KhazarLouis makes a number of interesting admissions which will be brought to light by Resistance Political Front Intelligence & Propaganda operatives.

For now, however, so that the Patriotic element can get practice in intelligence work, akin to seeing hidden pieces in the overall picture, I will for now refrain from revealing the secrets of your mental happy meals' prize.

The Domestic Terrorism Threat

Domestic terrorist groups are those which are based and which operate entirely within the United States, or its territories, and whose activities are directed at elements of the United States Government or its civilian population. Domestic terrorist groups represent interests that span the full political spectrum, as well as social issues and concerns. FBI investigations of domestic terrorist groups or individuals are not predicated upon social or political beliefs; rather, they are based upon planned or actual criminal activity. The current domestic terrorist threat primarily comes from right-wing extremist groups, Puerto Rican extremist groups, and special interest extremists.

Right-wing Extremist Groups. The threat from right-wing extremist groups includes militias, white-separatist groups, and anti-government groups. All right-wing extremist groups tend to encourage massing weapons, ammunition and supplies in preparation for a confrontation with federal law enforcement, as well as local law enforcement who are often perceived as agents for the State/Federal government

The goal of the militia movement is to defend and protect the United States Constitution from those who want to take away the rights of Americans. The militia movement believes that the United States Constitution gives Americans the right to live their lives without government interference. The FBI is not concerned with every single aspect of the militia movement since many militia members are law-abiding citizens who do not pose a threat of violence. The FBI focuses on radical elements of the militia movement capable and willing to commit violence against government, law enforcement, civilian, military and international targets (U.N., visiting foreign military personnel). Not every state in the union has a militia problem. Militia activity varies from states with almost no militia activity (Hawaii, Connecticut) to states with thousands of active militia members (Michigan, Texas).

The American militia movement has grown over the last decade. Factors contributing to growth include:

GUNS- The right to bear arms is an issue which almost all militia members agree and most militia members believe a conspiracy exists to take away their guns. The national system of instant background checks for all gun buyers, mandated by the 1993 Brady Act and which actually was implemented on November 30, 1998, has further angered many militia groups. These militia members see this new law as another example of how the government is conspiring to take away their guns. The banning of semiautomatic assault weapons has also angered many militia members .

STATE LAWS- Militias resent state laws forbidding them to gather together to fire weapons. Sixteen states have laws which prohibit all militia groups and 17 states have laws which prohibit all paramilitary training.

MISTRUST OF FEDERAL LAW ENFORCEMENT- is frequently mentioned in militia literature and overall militia mythology. FBI and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) actions, such as Ruby Ridge, the Branch Davidians, and the Freeman standoff, are cited, and thus are hated and distrusted by many militia members.

TAXES- Militia members believe that they pay too many taxes and that those tax dollars are wasted by a huge, uncaring and inefficient bureaucracy in Washington, D.C. Since the Internal Revenue Service collects federal taxes, it is widely hated by militia members.

THE UNITED NATIONS - is perceived as an organization bent on taking over the world and destroying American democracy and establishing "the New World Order." The New World Order theory holds that, one day, the United Nations will lead a military coup against the nations of the world to form a one-world government. United Nations troops, consisting of foreign armies, will commence a military takeover of America. The United Nations will mainly use foreign troops on American soil because foreigners will have fewer reservations about killing American citizens. Captured United States military bases will be used to help conquer the rest of the world.

Most of the militia movement has no racial overtones and does not espouse bigotry; there are some black and Jewish militia members. However, the pseudo-religion of Christian Identity, as well as other hate philosophies, have begun to creep into the militia movement. This scenario is currently being played out in the Michigan Militia, arguably the largest militia group in America. Lynn Van Huizen, leader of the Michigan Militia Corps, is currently trying to oust Christian Identity factions from his group. Christian Identity is a belief system that provides both a religious base for racism and anti-Semitism, and an ideological rationale for violence against minorities. This pattern of racist elements seeping into the militia movement is a disturbing trend, as it will only strengthen the radical elements of the militias.

Many white supremacist groups adhere to the Christian Identity belief system, which holds that the world is on the verge of a final apocalyptic struggle between God/Christ and Satan (The Battle of Armageddon) in which Aryans (European Caucasians) must fight Satan's heirs: Jews, nonwhites and their establishment allies (i.e., the Federal Government). The Christian Identity belief system (also known as Kingdom Identity) provides a religious base for racism and anti-Semitism, and an ideological rationale for violence against minorities and their white allies. Christian Identity teaches that the white race is the chosen race of God, whites are the "true Israelites" and Jews are the Children of Satan. Adherents believe that Jews have increasingly gained control of the United States Federal Government and are attempting to enslave the white population by enacting laws subjugating the white people, such as affirmative action, pro-choice, and anti-gun statutes.

To prepare for Armageddon, many Identity adherents engage in survivalist and paramilitary training, storing foodstuffs and supplies, and caching weapons and ammunition. As the next millennium approaches, Identity's more extreme members may take action to prepare for Armageddon, including armed robbery to finance the upcoming battle, destroying government property and infrastructure, and targeting Jews and nonwhites.

Due to Christian Identity adherents' widespread propaganda efforts and Identity's racist/anti-Semitic/anti-government appeal, there are a number of churches and diverse organizations throughout the United States that embrace the doctrines of Identity. Identity beliefs are also increasingly found in the rhetoric of all types of right-wing extremist groups, including, but not limited to, militias, survivalist communes, the Ku Klux Klan, neo-Nazis, skinheads, tax protesters, and common law courts. Thus, with the approaching millennium, there is a greater potential for members from such Identity influenced groups to engage in violent activities as well.

As the next millennium approaches, violent and illegal acts may increase, due to Christian Identity's belief that the world is on the verge of a final apocalyptic struggle (aka The Battle of Armageddon) between God/Christ and Satan. Identity members believe that this entails Aryans (European Caucasians) fighting Satan's heirs (Jews, non-whites, and their establishment allies). To prepare, Identity adherents engage in survivalist and paramilitary training. As the year 2000 approaches, more extreme members may take action to prepare for or bring about "Armageddon," including armed robbery to finance the upcoming battle, destroying government property and targeting Jews and non-whites.

Other Anti-Government Groups. The other right-wing anti-government groups include Freemen, "sovereign" citizens, and common law courts. The Freemen and sovereign citizens believe they have the right to renounce their citizenship, after which they do not have to comply with any laws or rules and the federal government would have no influence over them. In addition, some, like the Freemen, believe they have the right to issue their own money which is called "certified comptroller warrants."

Some members of the right-wing have formed their own system of laws to enforce and follow (called common law courts) to replace the existing court system. The common law courts have no basis in jurisprudence, but participants claim legitimacy based on the laws of the Old Testament, English common law, the Magna Carta and commercial law. Some common law courts have issued arrest warrants, but as of yet, there are no reports that any of these arrests have been accomplished.

If they were interested in you following all these 'legal' gun laws then what they would do is to get one of them to get a Fedrule Firearms License themselves and then to sell at wholesale prices 'legal' firearms and military surplus ammunition to the militia members. I'd get something useful, like a used French Army semi-automatic MAS 1949/56 chambered out to .308 caliber that currently sells wholesale for $200 or less with maybe some .308 Enfield bolt-actions for another $75 each. Then each of their members could get two 'legal' military-grade .308 rifles for around $300 which nobody would much care or be able to make 'illegal' as well as standardization of equipment and ammunition. The ammunition could be purchased in case-load quantities and sold at price as well. Of course this would entail responsibility for keeping everyone 'legal' and answering to the criminal regime if, say someone ran wild with their militia rifle.

Of course, no such policy is going to be held by any militia group because such a course would require a moral responsibility which no militia general is going to undertake. Least no militia general that I've ever heard of. Instead they'll natter about how there ain't gonna be no more Wacos and then yammer about how the next victims are outside their protection because they did "something illegal" given the next siege.

It's really rather funny when you think about it.

The Missouri 51st Militia has stated several times that "The FBI are just doing their job." Recently, the leadership of the 51st went with Blow Grits to hunt down Eric Rudolph. As a result, the 51st is pretty much the only open militia group left in Missouri as the other militia units went underground back in 1997. The only militia groups left are those militia groups, like the 7th Missouri Militia, which pumps out propaganda and acts as a spokesman and a political front justifying Resistance activity regardless of whether it is 'legal' or not.

In Sept. 1997 I found out that the Missouri Highway Patrol had sent in two spies to snoop on the militia movement in Missouri after the April 19th government bombing in OKC. A number of people got hurt by these sneaks. The Missouri 20, and much of a SW Missouri militia was seriously compromised because of weapons violations. They had something to do with Brad Glover's militia getting caught in Ft. Hood in July 1997. These spies were only found out because the other militias decided to go underground and there was no room for each of these Highway Patrol spies to continue spying on only 2-4 other people. They might not have been caught unless they had confessed to a militia umbrella group that they were Missouri Highway Patrolmen.

A militia organization like the Missouri 51st doubtless has quite a few infiltrators skulking around. Its leadership is rather lax regarding security matters because they wish to think that running a paramilitary organization which has no overt allegiance to the criminal regime is 'legal.' Thus since they aren't doing anything 'illegal' it really doesn't matter how many people working for the criminal regime they have spying on them. Now I'd say that a Revolutionary organization out to overthrow the ruling criminal regime shouldn't worry overmuch about what is "legal" but should indeed worry about internal security. Let's just say that the Missouri 51st Militia and myself do not agree on what a militia should do or how it should operate, although I have worked on political and legal matters with the Missouri 51st leadership several years ago when the differences of opinion were not as great.

> How can I do that when

The criminal regime says what is legal and illegal, and then it does whatever it wants to do.

I view the political situation as equivalent to that before the American, French, and Russian Revolutions. A corrupt and weakened criminal regime violates the rights of the people, and the people in reaction revolt and then execute the criminal regimeists and their families if they don't run fast enough to another country.

I would advise you to form your own Resistance Active Service Unit cell of your family and close friends. I would also advise that you sit tight and keep your mouths shut. If someone from the criminal regime wrongs you, then they are fair game and you can do whatever you want to with them. However, unless you are really determined, I'd advise you to not buy automatic weaponry which will get the FIBBIES and BATF on your ass, but rather a M1 Garand or a good military 30 caliber rifle in 30/06 or .308 and a .22 rifle and a 12-gauge Remington 870 Express pump shotgun and plenty of ammunition for those guns. You don't need ammo-wasting poodle-shooters if you cannot afford resupply for such guns.

Real Resistance fighters form their own Resistance Active Service Unit (ASU) cells from people they know and trust. Like the IRA ASUs, this cell should never go over five people, with one of the members being the leader by consensus, and the leader or maybe the assistant leader having the contact with another ASU cell. This form of Resistance organization is known as "Leaderless Resistance" after the paper prepared by Louis Beam. It is practically uncrackable by the criminal regimeist security forces and even with a security leak the damage is localized to the Resistance ASU cell which is disrupted.

I think they could easily steam open any letters I would send to you. I am known as a Resistance hard case and snail mail is far more easily tampered with than secured e-mail. In any case, if they monitor my e-mail account (and they doubtless do) then your name is already on their list.

Why don't you open up an anonymous dummy e-mail account or twenty on Hotmail or Rocketmail or Juno? With maybe two or three regular dummy e-mail accounts with a dummy account being used but once. I wouldn't be conversing electronically with a known hard-case like myself using a University of Missouri e-mail account if I were you. If I had access to a college computer I'd handle sensitive electronic correspondence via dummy e-mail account.

And if you have access to the Internet, perhaps you should look at my WWW page using a college computer and a floppy disk and print out or view your hardcopy at home.

See <http://www.mo-net.com/~mlindste> for my main WWW page <http://www.mo-net.com/~mlindste/mmmindex> for my Modern Militiaman electronic e-'zine for suggestions on how to set up communications for a Resistance cell.

If you have sold over a thousand rifles and guns to militiamen, then it is no wonder that the FiBbIes, BATF, and the local criminal regimeist enforcement apparatus has had a cow.

The point I was trying to make to a gentleman from Missouri who complained about the policy of the 51st Missouri Militia was to make the point that curtailing 'illegal' weaponry meant taking responsibility for getting 'legal' but adequate weaponry to their militiamen at the lowest possible price. The fact that a militia leader from Michigan saw fit to implement this wise policy is a good thing for militiamen from Michigan, while it raises the question as to why other state militia organizations were not as cogent or duly deliberate.

I will allow that there are some militia commanders who have taken care of the state of their command's weaponry, and that in this regard you have done an exemplary job. While we have had political differences concerning the ends of the militia movement as a whole, an inattention to the internal necessities of your command has not been one of my complaints (or even my business) against yourself, Norm. I would say that your communication has in effect strengthened my observation concerning some open militia generals' basic inability to take care of their commands.

I have seen all sorts of attention being taken to the fripperies of uniform and rank structure, and little, if any attention taken to open militia weaponry. I think the state of a militiaman's rifle is a far better statement of his competence as a combatant than a look at the amount of PX junk on his uniform.
